ITERRIBLE LOSS OF LIFE. Z. Schotsselder, Heinrik Pastoil, Theordore

A COLLISION OF STEAMERS IN THE ENGLISH CHANNEL.

One of the Vessels Goes Down With One Hundred and Thirty-Two Souls-A Dense Fog the Cause of the Acetdent. List of the Saved and Missing.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—The Netherlands line steamer W. A. Scholten, Capt. Taal, left Rotterdam for New York Saturday and collided with the steamer Rosa Mary, ten miles off Dover, at li p. m. and sunk. The steamer Ebro, of Sunderland, rescued ninety of the passengers and 133 are missing.

At the time of the accident a decise fog prevailed, and the Scholten was struck on the port bow by the Rosa Mary, and she went down with a hole eight feet wide in her side in twenty minutes. Directly after the shock all was confusion aboard the sinking steamer, and the shrieking, jostling crowd of steerage passengers made the loss of life greater than it would have been had they obeyed the captain's orders and kent quiet. Two brats were lowered, but it was found impossible to cut off the boats on the starboard side. Many secured life belts and were saved. Several women who had the belts were deprived of them by Dutch sailors, who snatched them from the women's bodies. The Eoro had a quantity of lumber on board which the captain or level thrown in the water, and to which some clung and were resoued.

Conflicting stories about the disaster are told by the two ships' crews. The Rosa Mary hed out masthead lights but no side lights, i idicating that she was at anchor.
An officer of the Scholten says in supposed the Rosa Mary was at anchor an i gave her sufficient room so as to pass, but he discovered too iste that she was coming down on the port bow. Officers of the Rosa Mary say that they were at anchor and did not steam up until morning.

Several boline were recovered at Dover, among them Henri Bianc, of Oillo, the sole cabin passenger. Large numbers of the bodies look as though they had been frozen to death. The water was so extremely cold that many perished from exhauction.

The steamer Scholten was a first-class Clyde-built steamship, thirteen years old, 1710 net tonnage, and valued at $250,000. She had a permit for sixty oabin, forty intermediate and 500 steerage passengers, and is believed to have had a cargo of dry goods, gin, Rhine wines and herring.

It is stated that a mackerel boat, which has just arrived at Hastings, reports that a steamer ran across and damaged her nets in the early part of last night, and that the mackerel boat gave chase to the vessel in the hope of identifying ber and claiming compensation. While chasing the steamer the crew of the mackerel boat saw her run into the Scholten. A color of truth is given this story by the fact that fragments of fishing neis were found on the bows of the Rosa

Two bodies, victims of the Scholten disaster, were brought ashore this morning at Deal, one of which has been identified as that of Capt. Taat, master of the lost vessel. Mr. Robson, one of the rescued passengers, states that the Scholten had just weighed anchor when the collision occurred, and that the passengers mostly secured them, hut that they were very nearly useless, as the ship was engulfed so soon after the collision. Robson also states that the Scholten's decks burst when she foundered, thus adding greatly to the loss of life. The vessel now lies in twenty fathoms of water, and is in the way of shipping. The survivors of the wrecked Scholten will sail on Wednesday for New York on another steamer, provided by the company.

Chief Mate Wells, of the steamer Rose Mary, said this morning to a United Press representative: "We left Hartlepool last Fruiay under the command of Capt. Webster and with a orew of sixteen men. About 8:30 on Saturday night the collision occurred. We had been at anchor since 8 o'clock. The captain end I were on the bridge. The sea was calm, our lights were burning brightly and the fog bell was being con-stantly sounded. I first saw the steamer that collided with us off our starboard how. She was then showing red and green lights, indicating that she was shaping her course to the starboard side. We could not shift our pecition as the tide was ebb and were anchored. I next noticed the steamer port her helm and attempt to oross our bows. The tide, however, was not rightly judged, and the vessel settled on our bows, cutting the Rosa Mary to the waters edga. I caunot tell the name of the vessel that collided with us. Whatever vessel it was she proceeded on her course and soon disappeared in the derkness. We remained at anohor during the night and were piloted to Dover at 7 o'clock in the morning. There we docked."

Capt. Webster, of the Rosa Mary, state that the weather from the time he left Hartlepool, was hazy, Ou Saturday morning the fog become so dense they were compelled to anchor for three hours off Halfordness. At 11 o'clock they proceeded and passed the east Goodwin lightship at 7 o'clook in the evening. The fog becoming again thick, they anohored at 8 o'clock, the steamer being then about eight miles west southwest of the east Goodwin light. The forecastle lookout was the first to intimate the approach of a vessel. The collision, Capt. Webster says, occurred about 10:So p. m.

A Number of Vessels Suffer from a Terrific Storm on Lake Michigan. CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—The three-masted schooner Stampede was on Saturday anobored off Racine when the violent gale which prevailed, caused her to break two chains and she was driven up the lake. She was seen drifting by Chicago last night, hut tugs refused to go to her assistance because of the heavy sea raging. Twenty-eight miles below the city the captain succeeded in beaching her. A large mastiff on the chooner was thrown overboard with a rope about his neck, in the hope that he would swim ashore with it. The rope was too heavy, however, and the poor brute was drowned. In the meantime the life-saving crew from this ci y were on the ground, and succeeded in getting a line to the schooner, and her crew of eight men with their juggege were rescued. Reports from different lake ports show that the storms of Saturday and Sunday were very disastrous. The schooner Penobscot, which arrived yesterday, reports the loss of her master, Capt. Charles Johnson, of Milwaukee, The steam barge Thomas H. Smith and consorts left Sheboygan for here, but were erced to anchor when two miles south of the harbor pier. The crews were rescued by the life-saving crew. The schooner Constitution was brought to Alpena leaking badly.

Fears are expressed for the safety of the passenger propeller City of Duluth, which was due at Ashland, Wis., Sunday.

The Storm Abated.

MARQUETTE, Mich., Nov. 23.—The storm has abated. The propeller Cuba is stranded on rocks on the Canadian side, below Niebish Rapids and is leaking. She declined assistance. The propeller Hopkins arrived at the 800 at 5 p. m. yesterday completely covered with ice. The captain reports a fearful experience. The steamer Queen of the West was outside just before the gale began and should report somewhere soon. Fears are felt for her safety and also for an unknown schooner sighted by the steamer Fisk.

An Ohio River Tragedy, PORTSMOUTH, O., Nov. 22-A probable murder was committed on the steamboat Ingomar about ten miles below Portsmouth Saturday night while en route from Cincinnati, Joshua Bailey, stower of freight, ordered John Ferreli, a deck hend, to help pump out the lighter. He refused, and received the regulation cussing. While Balley was stooping over the pump Ferrell slipped up behind and dealt him a deady blow with an ax, the pole orushing his skull. On arrival at this port Bailey was removed to the city hospital. Ferrell escaped off the boat and has not be apprehended. Surgeons Davidson and Fulton performed an operation, removing ten pieces of skull, several of which had been driven down into the brain which coxed out of the wound. He will probably die. Both men live in Cincinati.

CHICAGO, Nov. 22,-The Rev. Dr. Bolton, of the First Methodist church, who attended the executed Anarchists during their last hours, compares their death with that of the impenitent thief, who was crucified with Jesus. Nina Van Zandt Starving to Death.

CHICAGO, Nov. 22-A local paper this morning publishes an article in which it is that Nina Van Zandt, Spies' proxy wife, is wasting away, food not having passed her lips since the day before Spies was hanged. In conversation with a reporter she expressed much bitterness against the press and those who "murdered" her

Mrs. Van Zandt appeared greatly concerned about her daughter's health and fears the worst. Sue said: "Had you heard that an effort was made to revive August after his body reached the undertaker's! Well. it is true. The physicians used an electric battery, applying it to his body for an hour or more in the hopes of fanning into a flame the spark of life which seemed to be lingering in his veins. August never appeared to be dead. His lips were moist and his cheeks were warm after his body was received from the jail. But in August's case no encouraging effects were produced, and, though at one time there was a spark of hope, the physicians soon gave it up, and permitted the embalmers to go to work. That was a great mistake. The embalmers began work at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and he died at 12. They should have waited several hours or more, and perhaps a day

CALUMET, Mich., Nov. 23.-Fire was discovered yesterday morning in shaft No. 1 of the Calumet & Hecia mine, one hundred feet north of the main engine shaft. Ail the shafts excep; those at the South Hecia have been closed, and an attempt is being made to extingu sithe fire by carbonic gas, as was done in the case of the recent fire in the mine. The company has an limmense supply of chemicals on band, and 500 feet of four inch gas pipe were put down the burning shaft in two hours. Owing to the network of timber the fire is likely to prove disastrous. The loss of time is a serious misfortune to the miners, and especially as this time of the year, and following so closely upon a similar fire, which necessitated the closing of the mine for several weeks. Incendiary ism is suspected.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 22 - The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad company was held to-day at the Central huilding, Reverdy Johnson, Jr., presiding. The following directors, representing the private holdings of stock, were elected: William T. Burns, James Carey Coole, Robert Garrett, T. Harrison Garrett, Decatur H. Miller, George W. Dobbin, John Gregg, George A. Von Linden, James Slean, Jr., Charles T. Mayer, William Kayser, James D. McLane. The latter four are new members, and will take care of the interests of the Drexel-Morgan syndicate. The ret ring directors are: John K. Cowen, Joshua G. Harvey, W. W. Taylor and Aubrey Pearce.

The sunual report of president pro tem.

William F. Burns, of the company for the year ended September 30, 1887, was adopted. It shows that the revenues of the company were $20,652,085.90, being an increase of $2,286,598,71 as compared with 1886, and the expenses were $14,120,131.20; net earnings, $6,538,904.70. The operating of the Philadelphia division cost $76,220.51, more than Its gross earnings. The gross earnings of the roads east of the Uhio river were $11,-201, 848, 84, an increase of $1,854,735,30, as compared with 1886, and the working expenses on the same have increased $1,087,-757.70, making a comparative net increase of the net profits of $3:6,977.60. The coal trade of the main stem shows an aggregate of 4,209,477 tons. The tonnage of through merchandise east and west were 3,537,197 tons, an increase of 804,088 tons. The passenger earnings on the 'entire system were $4,878,575.63, an Increase over 1886 of $602,-211.77. The tonnage earnings were $15,780,-460.27, an increase of $1,634,386.94. "Under an arrangement," says the report, "made with a syndicate of eminent bankers funds sufficient to take care of the floating deht of the company have been seoursil and this debt, it is expected, will be funded during the coming year in accordance with a plau which has received the approval of the syndicate." Resolutions were voted upon and adopted looking to the acquisition of the stock and bouds of the Grafton & Greenbriar railroad; and the acquirement by the Baltimore & Ohio of bonds of the consolidated lines of the Wheeling & Pittsburg. The effect of the latter resolution is simply to enable the Baitimore & Ohio to give the trustees under the new general consolidated mortgage the bonds as additional security under that mortgage.

In our estimation the mystery is of easy solution. Its production, cause writes as though he regrets that the negro and disappearance is theoretically about as follows: For several days the atmosphere had been surcharged with a thick, smoky, viporous matter. On Saturday morning the wind began to blow in fitful gusts chasing these vaporous particles hither and thither, and finally driving refused and the two men have been living them into an upper strata, where the air was perhaps forty degrees colder, thus causing a condensation of the accumulated matter. A short period in such a low temperature sufficed to congeal or solidity the moving mass of clouds, thus remlering it an entirely opaque body, as it drifted between the earth and sun, and Ginnold, in return, fired the contents of the usual rays of light. Hence the ex-

WOODBINE, Ky., Nov. 22.—A desperate and bloody conflict took place at Jelico, Tenn., last evening, resulting in four deaths. The difficulty arose in the afternion when Marshai Woolwine attempted to arrest Noah Miller and some other miners for disorderly conduct. The men resisted, and Miller was kitled, but his friends succeeded in putting the officer to flight. At 8 p. m. the friends of Miller were reinforced and attacked the marshal, wounding two of his posse, James and John L. Smith. Frank Kincaid (colored) and Press Willoughby were killed and Dick Kerr so badly wounded that he died this morning. Marshal Woolwine is under arrest, but more killing is ex-

A Deadly Duel.

Monnison, Cal., Nov. 92.-A desperate duel, in which both combatants were killed, occurred on a ranch eighteen miles from here yesterday. Three years ago Alexander Giose bought a ranch from John Everhart. He failed to meet the payments and last spring he turned the ranch over to Richard Ginnold, and ordered Gross to leave. Gloss as neighbors, but at swords' points. Yesterday they quarreled over a fence and Gioss proceeded to Ginnold's house, armed with a revolver. Ginnoid came to his door, and as he did so Gloss shot him in the breast. Ginnold's brother-in-taw handed Ginnold a shotgun, and thus armed, the wounded man staggered out to meet his foe. Gloss fired again, but the shot did not take effect, and both barrels into Gioss' stomach. He fell, but not before he had fired two more builets into Ginnoid's body. "No, indeed," he replied, "there has not been a death in my family for years." "Why, then," asked his neighbor, with more curiosity than politeness, "do you dress in such deep mourning!" "Oh, that's on account of my business."

"You are an undertaker, then?" "No, I am a pall bearer," and noting the look of surprise in his interlocutor's face he went on: "Some years ago there was a strike in my trade. I am a carpenter, and during one of my idie days I passed a house where there was a funeral. Stopping to watch tt I was approached by the undertaker, who asked me if I was going to the funeral. I said I had none, provided I was paid for it, and we finally struck a bargain. I made as much that afternoon as I would had I worked all day at my trade, and since then I have adopted pali hearing as a means of livelihood. I dress in black, as you see, and each morning look over the death notices. I have found that my serfuneral is that of a young man or woman or where the deceased has belonged to as secret societies, and that my most profitable customers are those who have outlived most of their companions. If the dead person bappens to be an unmarried lady past the meridian of life I am nearly always certain of the job. I find that at funerals the proportion of female attendants outnumbers the male about four to one, and that most of the latter are close relatives. As it is generally the rule to select the pall bearers from among those not connected with the family you can see that my services are very frequently in demand. I generally seek out he undertaker and make my bargain with him, and I average about two funerals a day. It is a nice, easy sort of life and eminently respectable. THE FISHERY CONFERENCE

FIRST DAY'S SESSION OF THE DIS-TI! GUISHED BIX.

Arranging the Hours of Sittings Mede of Procedure and Other Details - A Strictly Private Meeting-Carlisle and Mondali-Other Washington News.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 -Promptly at 19 fslock members of the fishery commission of which the world has beard so much, as membled in the diplomatic reception room at he department of state. To-day's session of the commissioners was for the purpose of erranging the hours of sitting; mode of roccedure and other details. Meesre. Angeli and Putnam were in the room when Mesers, Chamberiain, Tupper and West ar- life, stved, and a few minutes later they were foined by Secretary Bayard. When all of the gentiemen had entered, the doors were showed on the distinguished six-na private secretary from eltner side being admitted. The feeling at the department of state today appears to favor the issuance of a daily bulletin, or brief resume of proceedings, as the best method of keeping the public informed of the deliberations of the conven-

"What are they going to do about it?" That is the question frequently asked, and about which there is really a good deal of anxiety. Nobody can tell. The more the rabject is discussed the more its bigness and possibilities are recognized. The attempt to drag in side lasues such as commerciai anion, reciprocity, tariff, shipping, and merchant mariue interests, and even the purchase of a part of the British possessions, broaden the field so much that there no teiling when or where or how the end may be reached.

"What is the main question at issue, put to the fewest possible and plainest words? was asked of a gentieman who has spent a pretty large share of a pretty long life among the fishermen of the eastern coast, and who knows their side of the story per-

"The main question," he answered, "is merely whether the Canadlan government will let our vessels land at their ports to buy bait and the necessary provisions and supplies. That's about the size of it. You see we had a treaty in 1815 by which our vesseis were prohibited fishing nearer than three miles from the Canadian coast at any point, and instead of this line circling about the indentations of the coast, it is drawn from point to point straight across. There was also a proviso that prohibited the sale of hait to American fishing vessels, prescribing a heavy pegaity for that offense.'

"What could be the meaning of such

"It was probably intended to protect the Canadian fishermen by making it impossible for fishermen of the United States to fish there. Of course they can't fish without

"What is this balt which they buy from the Canadians along the shores?"

"Small fish, generally. They are used for hait by the fishers in deep water, and they can only be had near the shore, for the small fish don't veature for out at sea. The people on shore take them with nets and keep them alive, to sell to the fishing vessels. They made a good deal of money at it, too, until the Canadian government put a stop to it. The fishing vessels of the United States left at a fair estimate half a million dollars a year along the Canadian coast among the poor people of that section."

"Why has the Canadian government suddenly refused permusion for this which has been going on so long!"

"Because of the expiration of a treaty made some twenty years or so ago, which throws everything back, as they daim, to the old treaty of seventy years

"But if these people want to sell their balt to United States fishers and the vessels can't come ashore to get it, why don't they send it out to them, outside the three mile Pirmit 900

"Because the Canadian government won't permit it. They keep a lot of small vessels prowling up and down the coast all the time, and if a vessel goes off shore to fish or for any other purpose, they watch her and follow to see that she does not sell anything to the yankees. If she does her owner must suffer, for it hy a heavy fine and perhaps Imprisonnient,

"How do the people of that section take this sort of thing since it cuts them out of their business?"

"They curse the government up hill and town dale. They make no concealment of their disgust and thorough hatred of the government. They speak kindly of the queen herseif, but that is all."

"They would probably take kindly, then, to the proposition of Edward Atkinson, that we solve the problem by buying New Branswick, Nova Scotla and perhaps Newfoundland for fifty million dollars or so."

"They would be delighted with it. Nothing could please them more. It would be happy solution of the question, too. It would give us what we ought to have had all the time, the strip of country running clear up to the St. Lawrence, and would also put an end to all this troublesome fishary question. Beside it would give us a hand station at Newfoundland, only three days by steamer from Europa.

BEE HIVE.

During the whole of last week we advertised in extra large space, for the benefit of the people, the extremely low prices at which we are selling our goods. We are convinced that the public appreciated the bargains we offered, for our tores were thronged and crowded during the entire week, and the people found that we had in stock everything exactly as advertised, and all—rich or poor—received the same courteous treatment, and fair, honest dealing.

We shall, for the next few weeks, continue this great sacrifice sale, because our stock is 100 large. We have too many goods and we need money.

Then, again, we are daily receiving invoices of Christmas Goods, some right new Novel ies in Bisque Figures, Fancy Plush Boxes, &c., &c. Now we must make room for these, and therefore this great sacrifice sale will be continued for a few weeks more. Come at once and look for yourselves
